Tried-and-tested tips for intergrating a helper into your household

Be precise about what you want your helper to do.

Demonstrate how you prefer tasks to be completed.

Communicate openly and regularly to reach common ground.

Consider her opinions instead of just your point of view.

Dear Employers,

If you've recently welcomed a migrant domestic worker (MDW) into your household, the two of you might still be adjusting to each other. Naturally, you're looking forward to discovering that she's a great hire.

The good news is that you have the power to do more than just be optimistic. You can actively shape how she works to turn your hopes into reality. Discover the story of how Rasyidah did exactly this to build a wonderful bond with her helper, Novita.

Did You Know?

Since 1 July 2023, we've enhanced the minimum medical insurance required for all MDWs, to better protect employers against large medical bills.

The annual claim limit has been raised to at least $60,000. To enjoy more assurance, consider making a transition early if your MDW's existing medical insurance doesn't meet the minimum coverage.
